LINDSAY-WILSON COLLEGE.

Above we present the picture of the Lindsay Wilson School Building now under course of construction on the hillside in Columbia. As the picture shows it will be a magnificent building, sufficiently large to accommodate five hundred students, and in a few more working weeks will be completed.

The readers of The News, doubtless, are well advised as to the efforts made on the part of our town and county to secure this institution; they are acquainted with the fact that it was secured through the efforts of our enterprising citizens in conjunction with the Louisville Conference both making sacrifices in money and efforts, to secure it for this immediate section of the State. After the painters brush has been used for the last time the keys will be turned over to the Louisville Conference—a precious heritage whose destiny will be guided by intelligent, earnest Christian gentlemen for the special benefit of the young people of Southern Kentucky who desire an education. The building is 64 by 73 feet with a full story basement for a gymnasium. The front is two stories, containing 8 rooms while the rest is only 10 feet and will be used as a chapel and auditorium. The partitions are made to fold so the entire lower floor can be used as a hall with the front upper floor as a gallery. The building is an ornament to the town and its inside architecture could not be surpassed for school purposes. The entire cost of building, ground and equipments will approximate $120,000. In every particular the contractor, Mr. G. O. Fletcher, of Litchfield, is making it as solid and beautiful as the architect designed. This institution is not merely backed by fond hopes or imagination, but comes endowed with $10,000 direct, and to share equally with two other endowment schools of a similar character in an endowment fund of more than $200,000. The one great need to brighten its future, to make certain its mission for great good, to give it power and prestige, is sufficient dormitories to accommodate the many young people who would attend if cheaper boarding facilities were provided. The Methodist people, the Louisville Conference, are aware of the true situation. They realize the importance of such preparation and have determined to have them. The architect, Mr. Val P. Collins of Louisville, is now working on the plan which will be submitted to the Educational Board at an early day and while waiting for the designs the agencies of the conference are working to secure the money. The men who guaranteed the payment of the $100,000 subscribed in this section, are receiving no more out of this enterprise than those who made the pledge. They are working for the school with hope of reward, save that which is common to a cheerful giver. The entire amount will be due by the 15th of next month and there is yet uncollected nearly $4000. You can save the bondsman the discomfort of borrowing the money and the school from paying the interest if you will waive your privilege of quarterly payments and send the entire amount. It will be greatly appreciated and your donation would go direct as you intended and the consciousness of knowing it fully paid would bring happy thoughts to your mind and sweet dreams to your slumbers. Send it if you possibly can and save us from borrowing.

DEATH OF SAMUEL SHANNON.

BY SAVANAH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—There died in Metairie county, Ky., some weeks ago, Judge Samuel Shannon at the advanced age of ninety-three. He was a most interesting character, a very strong man physically and morally. His individuality of character was most pronounced; his self-reliance was phenomenal; his usefulness was perennial. He was a Christian and believed in the Word, and all the Word. I have seen him on horseback a thousand times; I never saw him riding at a faster gait than a walk. I never saw him in a hurry, and I never knew him to be behind time. He lived up to his promises, and that is a great big part of the whole duty of man. He "got" religion at the mourner's bench—wrestled with the spirit, and was triumphant after much tribulation, and he never had very much faith in any religion that was easy to get. He belonged to the Cumberland Presbyterian church; he knew the Bible from head to tail, and he prayed every day of his life.

He was a farmer and a trader. Before the building of the Louisville & Nashville railroad he used to haul goods from Louisville to merchant in the open "reelers" of Barren county. Once he was on his way to Louisville after goods and loaded with tobacco. The turkeys in Hart county were in as good order as the law required. He drove his team through a variety of Green river and refused to pay toll at that gate. The turkeys company had a summary way of doing business and they beat him in 1890. It was an exceedingly close race, and Shannon's majority was only six. In 1870 the same two ran for the third time, and Shannon beat his opponent two votes. As a Judge he was a wonder. No pent-up legal Ulice contracted his adjudications. He always had on hand plenty of law, but the best lawyers of that time were not his equals. He had a pronounced sense of justice. He hated a meanness. For the technique of the legal profession he had sovereign contempt. His business was to be just, and he was just with all his might. I shall never forget the case of Withers vs. Minor. The plaintiff was the landlord of the defendant, and had sued out an attachment for rent, and levied on the corn crop of the defendant. Withers was an excellent man, and did not care about the rent, but he believed that Minor was trying to "beat" him, and then he was the relentless auditor. His lawyers were James A. Rousseau and John W. Compton. The defendant's lawyers were William J. Whitlock, and the youngest member of the Edmonson bar was associated with him just "for practice." It was a bleak day in January, and as it was the case contested on the docket, it took all day to try it. Not only did the defense resist the attachment, but they pleaded payment of the rent. There was a jury and the evidence was all for the plaintiff, and if there ever was a legal definition of the grounds of attachment, it was in that case. Withers proved it that day. Whitlock narrowly escaped being a great man. He has known him to stain to lofty flights of eloquence. The difficulty with him was what has brought to light so much genius—a lack of application, an absence of continuity of purpose. Whitlock was not satisfied with one of the learned professions. He wanted to master them all. He was the first man to man an abolition speech south of the Green river, and had been able to fix his eyes on a single goal he would have gone far. I never saw a more lovable man, a more delightful companion. He was eternally startling his companions with original thoughts, but always inchoate. Nature denied him a "balance wheel," and in that respect the old jade is churlish to a heap of us.

Well, when the evidence was all in, Whitlock turned to his junior counsel and told him to address the jury, and be sure and "repeat that poetry you recited to me this morning." It was a passage from Burns:

"I'll no say men are villains a';
The real harden'd wicked,
Wha hae nae check but human law,
Are to a few restricted;
But oh! mankind are unspeak-
-An' little to be trusted;
I'll fain the wavering balance shake,
It's rarely right adjusted."

The junior found a place to put that, and thought he had made a hit with it; but the jury was not only longer than the time required to write a verdict for the plaintiff.

Then Whitlock moved to discharge the attachment. The lawyers all laughed immediately; but Whitlock made a speech that was simply thrilling, and a tear came slowly into his judge's eye, and rolled down his bronzed cheek. When Whitlock concluded Compton wanted to make a speech he replied, but Rousseau would not permit it, and called for judgment. "The attachment is discharged," said the Judge. That was all we wanted. Minor never intended to have anything subject to execution, and a thousand judgments against him would not have unshaken him the slightest. He got his corn, for the amount in controversy was too small for appeal. It was a long time before the Metairie bar could think of Withers vs. Minor without smiling. Rousseau and Compton, however, did not smile on the contrary, quite the reverse.

There never was a more hospitable man than Sam Shannon. He lived at Antioch for three score and ten years, and more than fifty years of that time his family never knew what it was to sit down to the table—breakfast, dinner or supper—without company. It was a church community, and nearly every Sunday there was a "meeting" at Antioch—Cumberland Presbyterian, Baptist or Methodist—and there was an invitation to everybody to take dinner at Brother Shannon's. I have known more than 100 to accept that invitation, and it included provender for beast as well as food for man, and I am as certain as that I write this that there never was anything like a flinch of that hospitality. I am sure that he no more begrudged his guests consumed—many of them strangers—than a guard of water a neighbor might have taken at his spring.

CHEAP LANDS

For Homesteaders and Colonies.

The country along the Cotton Belt Route in Southwest Missouri, Arkansas, Northwest Louisiana and Texas offers the greatest opportunities for Homesteaders. Mild climate, good water, cheap building material, abundance of fuel, and soil that will often in a single season yield enough to pay for the ground. Land can be bought as cheap as $1.50 an acre, prairie land at $4 and 55 per acre up, improved or partly cleared land at $10 and $15 per acre up. Some fine propositions for colonies—tracts of 2,000 to 8,000 acres at $4 to $10 per acre—big money in this for a good organizer. Fruit and truck land in the famous peach and tomato belt of East Texas at $10 to $20 per acre up. Write us for information about cheap rates, excursion dates, all our literature descriptive of this great country and let us help you find a home that will cost you no more than the rent you pay every year.

According to the requests of friends, made to me verbally, by letters and by petitions, and from persons of the various political parties, I have become a candidate for Circuit Judge, of the 29th Judicial District, to be voted for at the November Election, 1903. In politics, I am a Democrat.

RESPECTFULLY,
ROLLIN HURT.

The effort made by the Republican press to keep up the bitterness and hatred of the two last State campaigns is a feeble bid for victory. If the Democrats are enemies of the commonwealth, if they are butchering justice and debauching the fair name of old Kentucky, if they are incompetent to manage the business interest of such a great community, then the republican press and the leaders of that party should not stoop to the low and grovelling methods of kindling the fire of passion so destructive to our great common good. Their plea is but the wail of the outcast, and in their charges the concentration of bitterness and prejudice and their efforts pour and repulsive to the broad minded people of this State who believe in leaving the troubles of the past. The charges made against Gov. Beckham of abusing his pardoning power have been set at naught by publishing the records. The charge made against him in paying an attorney a liberal fee for collecting for the State has been proven unjust by a comparison of other States for work. Every plea presented, every accusation made has been to advance their party and not the interest of the State. Every body knows that Gov. Beckham and his associates have brought peace out of war, blessings out of chaos and lifted the State from the ravages of butchery, city and strife. He has been charged by that part of the press as being responsible for the murders in the mountains, yet fair minded men know that he has used all honorable legal means to have the murderers punished to the extent of their crimes and he has thrown every safeguard around the community to prevent similar deeds. The press charges against the Democratic nominees, against the party and the Governor are not founded on good will but purely for political purposes. They want to win and the hopelessness of their charges drives them mad. They have an aristocrat, an ex-Democrat, a manufacturer to lead their ticket. He is no Moses, no magnet, just a high stepper and when the campaign is over he will continue to do the hardware business. We have no charge to bring against the Republican ticket. They may all be competent and we presume they are. We have any party ever placed incompetent men on a State ticket.

neither do they put up a ticket headed for the destruction of a State's peace and prosperity. This is not American, it is not the desire of the great part of any party. We have to fear that our State would be destroyed, that high-bred lawlessness would be tolerated should the Republican ticket win. Neither do fair minded Republicans fear such dire results from Democratic victory. The efforts made by the Republican press to accuse prejudice against the Democratic nominees, and especially the hypocritical and malicious charges made against Gov. Beckham, can not be received in good grace by any intelligent citizen who believes in an honest, open fight. We do not want a Republican victory because we believe the Democratic government best for our State and decidedly more pleasant to our make up. We do not fear the result in November. Democrats will not stay at home and their power expressed at the polls sends the State 20,000 in the Democratic column.

In another column will be found the announcement of Hon. Rollin Hurt, a candidate for Circuit Judge in the 29th judicial district. This announcement is due, and due only to a great popular demand made on Mr. Hurt to become a candidate. For full three months the members of his party have besieged him from every part of the district, and not only have democrats been enthusiastic and persistent in their call on Mr. Hurt, but many strong, true and courageous republicans have likewise tendered their aid in making him the successful man for the position in the November election. Mr. Hurt has hesitated, but the appeals were so strong, so general that he enters the race at the bidding of friends who desire to see him judge. As a lawyer he stands in the front ranks, known to be able, fair, honest and fearless. As a citizen he is one of the most popular; as a democrat he is known to be conservative. A man who "attends to his own business, who is every body's friend, whose character is above reproach, and whose fitness for the position he seeks in every particular is rounded up with the highest qualifications.

Governor Beckham's speech covers every vital question before the people of Kentucky. It is a platform broad enough for every lover of true and progressive government to stand on. No issues are dodged; no straddles made. His speech is positive and aggressive. It will appear in our next issue.

It was our pleasure to meet Editor Walton of the Interior-Journal, at the Liberty Fair. For the last six years his paper has been one of our most valuable exchanges. Mr. Walton is as social and courteous as his paper is positive and aggressive.

The threatened financial trouble of the near future, and the tumbling of stocks and bonds ought to be dispelled by old man a confidence, the greatest antidote for american evils.

MR. ROBT. TUCKER DEAD.

Last Friday evening Mr. Robt. Tucker, of Knitely, breathed his last and his spirit passed to the God who gave it. For several months Mr. Tucker had been in feeble health and for six or eight weeks had been confined to his room and his death was not unexpected to his family and friends who were familiar with his troubles. He had just passed his seventieth year, though apparently a strong man until a few months ago, when age and disease united to take him from earth. Scarcely any other man was more thoroughly known to the people of our county than Mr. Tucker. He had served the county four years as jailor and both in public and private life was known as a honest, conscientious christian gentleman. His many friends throughout the entire county have been solicitous of his welfare during his illness, which shows the marked degree of interest and esteem entertained by our people for him. No eulogy is necessary; he was known, loved and appreciated. A good man gone to his reward. A wife and several children all grown up. Mrs. O. S. Dunbar, of this town, one of the daughters, who we extend our sympathy for he was our friend, a man of noble character.

MR. ROBT. TUCKER DEAD.

On the first page we give a picture of the school building which will soon be completed. Every person who contributed should feel proud of it, and those who refused to aid such an enterprise, and especially men of wealth, who own property and conduct business almost within its morning shadow should now come to the front with liberal subscriptions for doctors. It is a duty, a responsibility that it will be a credit to such enterprises that will benefit the public, morally, intellectually and financially, his talents surely are buried under indifference and selfishness. If we would have our town grow in population, in wealth and character the people who have the means must give and freely give to every enterprise whose mission is noble and elevating. We cannot live for self alone and hope for a healthy, vigorous people. Prosperity founded on a broader base than avarice is, in our judgment, a curse rather than a blessing. It is the doors, the givers, rather than the possessors who blame the way for poverty, who transform the wilderness of inactivity, superstition and ignorance into the broad plain of advancement, worth and intelligence. We are reminded that the wants of this age are numerous; that many efforts are made to separate the cash and its owner; that so many enterprises of various kinds are seeking aid that the pleas of many worthy parties and institutions are lightly considered. Give to the dormitory fund and many who failed to give on the first call would doubtless respond to the second. Already the property owners of this town have received good from the fact that the school will be a success. Slowly but surely advances have come and yet the limit has not been reached. For years town, both for business and residence purposes, have had but little value and but little demand. We whistled and talked about better times and richer countries but as soon as we went to work for the town and secured this school a better feeling prevailed, the future is brighter and many from a distance are willing to join interest with us. Now, if we rightly appreciate the results of our industrial efforts then let us all go forward and round up the work and not quit until the battle is over and the victory won.

MR. ROBT. TUCKER DEAD.

The services of Rev. W. H. Clemens has been secured as principal of the M. & P. High School and pastor of the Presbyterian Church at this place. Mr. Clemens comes highly recommended as an educator, having had charge of the school at Havana, Kentucky, for seven years, during which time the school was greatly built up. This move indicates that Columbia will soon be able to boast of two fine schools, and will soon become the center for education for all this Green River country. The M. & P. High School will open on Tuesday, the 15th of next month. We predict a successful school.

Everything indicates that Columbia has passed the critical period of standstill and entered on the upward tendency. Business in all lines has been satisfactory for the last two or three years and the present shows decided gains over any of the prosperous ones of the past. The realization of better business gave hopes for a better town. It marked the beginning of substantial improvement and mothered the desire to secure enterprises that will prove a blessing to future generations. We have been reliably informed that many good families desire to locate here and share in the advantages that surely will come to any community thoroughly aroused and determined to make advancements. Columbia is facing her brightest future and within the next few years we expect a wonderful transformation. We ask all who desire to aid in its development, to share in its blessings, to come and join us. Property is lower here than any town in America of equal worth and of half its opportunity. Don't tarry and make up opportunity to pass. Make up your mind; indecision brings nothing.

ACALL

The Columbia Horse Sale Company, officiated by the following well-known gentlemen, G. W. Robertson, President, Jno. B. Coffey, manager, A. S. Chewing, secretary, and a Braxton Massie, treasurer, have decided to have a public sale of horses and mules on the 8th day of October. This is not an experiment as the initiative sale of last May clearly demonstrated that a successful sale can be had in Columbia as in the more wealthy centers of the State. In the May sale, when but little stock was in real saleable condition, this company disposed of sixty head of horses at satisfactory prices. It is better prepared to handle two hundred head now. If you have a surplus put it in the sale; if you have an extra good horse and want an extra good price put it in the sale. The ability of this company to conduct the business, to secure plenty of buyers cannot be questioned. Every man connected with it will act fairly with both the buyer and the seller.

CHURCH MATTERS.

Frankfort Baptist church is to be remodeled at a cost of $12,000. The Methodist church at Richards, Henderson county, was destroyed by a storm.

Of the 80 Christians churches in Kentucky 875 give to missions and 825 do not.

Eldrs. J. Q. Montgomery and Z. T. Williams are holding an interesting meeting at Morehead.

Rev. J. S. McConnell, recording secretary of the Board of Extension of the Methodist church, is dead.

The East Concord Association of the Baptist church in 1913 at Browning's church, near Middleboro, Sept. 3 to 5.

Father Cushing, who made a long fight upon Bishop Matz, has been ordered to go to the monastery at Cellesse, near Bardonia, and to remain there for the balance of his life.

Rev. William Rapard, of Madison county, has served four Baptist churches as a pastor for 50 years without a dollar's salary. Surely a rich reward is awaiting this grand old soldier of the cross.

MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS.

Certainly there is no safer rule of conduct, and at first no rule seems clear of apprehension and easier of obedience. Like all primary laws of human life it has an interpretation down to the level of the most interior capacity so that the feeblest are humble in some measure, comprehending and acting up to its meaning. While at the same time it is of such wide and unvaried understanding and application that its exact import and fulfillment is the rarest attainment. He is indeed happy, who has settled in his own judgment what his work is, and is content to do it, without intermeddling in the affairs of others, or affixing that he do not properly belong to him.

Why cannot people, why do not people, mind their own business? One may be a fool in most matters; yet he is content to stick to his little world, however narrow, his folly will hardly be seen, and if seen will be readily tolerated. But the moment he creates his business his little world becomes apparent and contemptible, a reproach and an annoyance to others.

Unfortunately there are those in every community who seem to know more about everybody's business than their own. It is hardly possible that the better class of society places a very high estimate on such characters, whose delight is in mischief making.—Pearl Y.

ANIMAL VITALITY.

Whales, elephants and eagles come at the head of the table of creature which longest survive the ill to which they are heir. Yet whales has been found dead of a diseased jaw; an elephant has died of gangrene in one of his feet and an eagle a gunshot. In a Scotch deer forest not long ago a stalking party came across a magnificent golden eagle dead, caught in a fox trap. He had been caught by the center claw of one foot and had died of exhaustion in attempting to escape. By his side were two grouse and partly eaten hare which other eagle had brought to sustain him in his fight for life. If a rat had been caught by his leg in a trap either he or his comrades would have bitten off the imprisoned limb and released him. The poor despised rod is not built to stand physical violence, but he would fatten on imprisonment. Toads imprisoned in rocks for years—some known to many—crawl to light from time to time, fat and well. Unless microbes carried to them through the pores of the imprisoning rock have been their fate, it is certain, according to authorities, who ought to know, that they have eaten nothing for an undetermined period.

EDITH.

Groups are due in this season. Mr. George Boyd has sold his farm on Thursday.

Tom Whitley visited at Jo Hardwick's last Friday. Misses Ellen Eva Whitley visited the family of Nat Bottoms last Thursday.

Mr. Tom Montgomery has moved to Egypt. Prof. Jo Hardwick has about completed his dwelling.

PATRIOTIC FARMING.

You can usually tell how much the farmer loves his country by looking at his farm. If the weeds are taking his crop, the fences down, the gates off the hinges, his stock unkempt, the shed rotting in the field, the flies on the hogs in the barn, and his land waiting away and giving no evidence of having been used by a thoughtful, practical farmer, and he is in town three or four days in each week talking the streets about hard times and his neighbors, as well as the imaginary "rascals who are about to ruin this great government," you may know that he has but a small degree of patriotism. He should be quietly told that this government is composed of farmers as other people and that if he has not enough love and character to give his family, community and nation a good farmer and a well-managed farm he has failed to pay an honest debt which he owes to his country. The man who runs from the weeds and briars on his farm and fails to adorn and beautify it and be an honor to the noble calling which he has selected would not make a good public officer or fight a brave battle in the defense of his country. It is not necessary to sink a Spanish fleet in order to show our patriotism or be a hero.

DON'T SNUB A BOY.

Don't snub a boy because he wears shabby clothes. When Edison, the inventor, first entered Boston, he wore a pair of yellow linen breeches in too deep of winter.

Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespeare, the poet, was the son of a man who was unable to write his own name.

Don't snub a boy because his home is plain and unpretending. Abraham Lincoln's early home was a log cabin.

Don't snub a boy because he chooses a humble trade. The author of the "Pilgrim's Progress" was a tinker.

Don't snub a boy because of his physical disability. Milton was blind.—Selected.

Bishop H. C. Morrison struck the nail squarely on the head when he said: "When negroes quit ravishing we will quit lynching and not before. If the newspapers of the country would give as much space to the horrible crime which invariably precedes all lynchings as they do to the tales of lynching, it would serve to place sympathy where it belongs."

Galileo's first telescope was made from a part of a lead water pipe, in each end of which he cemented common spectacle glasses.

In America alone 90,000 automobiles will be placed on the market during the present year, which will supply only half the demand.

A room in which soiled clothes or shoes become stinky is two damp for health.

IT HELPS EVERYBODY.

The more poultry there is raised in any community the better it will be for the poultry breeders in that vicinity. We think everyone will readily see the force of this remark, and we know that nearly all of the breeders appreciate this fact because there is no class of people on earth who work harder and more faithfully to build up their industry than poultry breeders. They are as clean, wholesome, big-hearted optimistic people who believe in the future of the poultry business, as well as the present. It is owing to this staid poultry breeders have taken that the industry owes its present marvelous growth.

The poultry business is not growing simply because there is a greater demand for poultry, but because the friends of the industry are showing their friends the great profits in the business and urging them to live up to their opportunities. When all are doing it it makes it just as much better for every one.—E. G. SALE.

On Friday, 11th of September, I will offer for sale my valuable farm, all my farming implements, stock, including 21 milch cows, two to five years old, 10 head of cattle, household and kitchen furniture.

Powerful Odds Against Him.

Bridges, above and destined. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by the name of J. J. Bridges, Versailles, Ohio. For years I was troubled with kidney disease and neither Doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies: "I am on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for Liver and Kidney trouble and all forms of Stomach and Bowel complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by druggist.

R. Tr. Daniel, who owns many blocks in Spokane, Wash., most of the town of Trail, in British Columbia and ten thousand acres of land in Cuba, left Glasgow, Ky., twenty-five years ago and arrived in Spokane with just $1 in his pocket.

End of a Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes, of Du Pont, Ga. "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely gained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by all druggists. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.
